Purpose

For generations, the promise of an education has been a beacon of hope for millions of Americans seeking a better life. At a time when it was deemed illegal for African Americans to learn to read or write, brave men and women took great risks to learn these skills in secret. And after the Civil War, determined individuals made extraordinary sacrifices to establish the institutions we know today as Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs). These schools waged a war against illiteracy and ignorance and offered a newly free people the opportunity to write their own chapter in the American story.

Jack and Jill of America Incorporated is proud of its relationship with Historically Black Colleges and Universities across the country and is committed to supporting these institutions in their quest to educate our children. In honor of the recently established HBCU week, the Greater Grand Rapids Chapter of Jack and Jill of America will grant a maximum of 2 scholarships to off set the cost of participation in the HBCU Tour Experience (HBCUTE).
